Annual roster reflects top-tier suppliers across energy storage, solar, and wind

ARLINGTON, Va., Sept. 17, 2025 (GLOBE NEWSWIRE) -- Fluence Energy, Inc. ("Fluence") (NASDAQ: FLNC), a global market leader delivering intelligent energy storage systems, services, and asset optimization software, today announced that it has been named a Tier 1 energy storage supplier in the inaugural S&P Global Commodity Insights Premier List of Tier 1 Cleantech Companies.

The annual list recognizes leading suppliers across four technology categories: solar PV modules, solar PV inverters, energy storage systems, and wind turbines. Companies are evaluated using a rigorous six-point methodology that considers market presence, manufacturing scale and diversification, financial performance, sustainability factors, and other key indicators. The classification, which will be updated annually, is designed to provide clarity and transparency for developers, offtakers, and financiers seeking resilient and reliable partners in the cleantech industry.

"This recognition from S&P Global Commodity Insights underscores our position as a global market leader and a trusted partner for our customers," said Julian Nebreda, President and Chief Executive Officer, Fluence. "Being named a Tier 1 company for energy storage systems validates our commitment to bankability, scale, and sustainable innovation. It is a testament to the dedication of our team and the value we deliver to customers worldwide as we transform the way we power our world."

The recognition adds to a growing list of recent accolades for Fluence. In August 2025, the company was named to Newsweek and Plant-A Insights Group's list of America's Greatest Companies 2025, which evaluates organizations on financial strength, workforce performance, innovation, and sustainability. The previous month, in July 2025, the Australian Clean Energy Council honored the Liddell Battery Project, developed with AGL and BlackRock Industries, with its Equity, Inclusion, and Diversity Award.
